QUOTE (Wizard Thoarin @ Apr 11 2011, 11:40 PM) why not just have custom data written to a custom data xml file so that you don't have to worry about data being over written. If necessary you can have a custom_weapons.xml, custom_cyberware.xml, etc. if necessary or else just throw it in one custom.xml file with an extra tag as to which standard set of xml data it should be appended to on program launch?QUOTE (whatever's @ Apr 12 2011, 05:48 AM) Exactly. Don't worry about my xml customizations. I'll manage on my own. And i think it's reasonable that the user community does the same.I like it! Much easier to do things that way. Should be in for this weekend's update. Page 2 Target Group: Members Posts: 60 Joined: 18-March 11 Member No.: 24,813 More suggestions and/or observations. Commlinks don't have the option of improving their Response or Signal ratings. (SR4A, p. 222)Some commlink add-ons (such as sim modules) should be considered "plug-ins". Software should probably be treated similarly, so that they don't clutter the gear list. One possible add-on is the "basic software" package (SR4A, p. 232), for non-hackers.The list of purchased items could stand to have a couple extra columns; definitely one showing the price, perhaps also one for the items' ratings. Same goes for augmentations, perhaps with an Essence cost as well.The status bar at the bottom could also be expanded, showing not only Build Points remaining, but also Essence and money. Page 3 QUOTE (LonePaladin @ Apr 19 2011, 12:49 PM) More suggestions and/or observations.The list of purchased items could stand to have a couple extra columns; definitely one showing the price, perhaps also one for the items' ratings. Same goes for augmentations, perhaps with an Essence cost as well,Just to fill you in: I spent all of the day trying to get this to work with Cyberware using a 3rd party control. It had a few issues like being an absolute headache to work with, and changing the grade caused it to select Standard as the default (that wasn't a real problem since you could still correctly choose the grade you wanted, but it could lead to accidental grade changes). The other major problem with this is that none of the ones you mix different types of information. Not a big deal for Cyberware since Cyberware plugins are just other pieces of Cyberware. It becomes a show-stopper, however, when you work with Weapons which are made up of Weapon, Weapon Accessories, and Weapon Modifications, and Vehicles which are made up of Vehicles, Vehicle Modifications, Weapons, Weapon Accessories, and Weapon Modifications.Long and short of it all: While I really liked how it looked, it doesn't look like it will work with Chummer since I need to mix different objects. (IMG-style_emoticons/default/frown.gif) Page 4 QUOTE (Argent @ Apr 27 2011, 10:52 AM) Debugging:Ok found something else. Making an ogre rigger. Gave him metagenic improvement logic, displays correct min/max. Raised his logic to 5, then bought cerebral booster rtg 3. His augmented logic should be 8 but it freezes at 7. I think the program is still thinking his racial max is 5 so his aug max would be 7.In my testing build this is coming up correctly, so it should be fixed in the next update.QUOTE (LonePaladin @ Apr 27 2011, 11:44 AM) Quick suggestions.On the 'spare clips' firearm addon, please turn on the Quantity control.Can cybereyes and ears have the rating adjuster, rather than an individual entry for each level? Having to totally remake the eye-kit just because you need to adjust the capacity is a bit of a pain.On the gear list, I'd like to see a placeholder item, so that you can create packages that get lumped together.Audio/Visual enhancers (like goggles, or earbuds) have a Capacity equal to their rating, and each enhancement takes up 1 from this. Right now, it's possible to add, say, six vision mods into a pair of contacts. Using the capacity system (like what you use for cyberlimbs) would take care of that.Drones could use some love in the sensor category, perhaps as an extra item on the right-click menu (since they're technically not 'mods', but just a normal thing that all drones get). They'd have a Capacity based on the size of the drone, and the Improved Sensor Array mod would alter that. Also, these sensors can have mods attached (like adding low-light to a camera).I'll take a look at merging Cyberears/eyes into one. My original plan was to do this but realised why the book shows them as separate items: the Cost and Avail don't follow a fixed formula (Rating x 500 for example). I MAY have a solution to that. I'll have to give it a try. I'd really like to just merge them altogether since they are technically the same items.The Drone/Vehicle sensor thing was bugging me too. I started to think about it when I had first entered them but put it on the back burner. I'll have to look into this again.QUOTE (Leoric @ Apr 27 2011, 11:54 AM) Suggestion: As MA quality costs 0, and costs are calculated from selected options in the MA tab, why not removing Martial Arts from qualities list, and showing the corresponding tab permanently?As I remember, the famous NSRCG for SR2/3 used to have a tab for each aspect of a character, and I used to find it quite useful.This will be going in. Page 5 QUOTE (Leoric @ Apr 26 2011, 07:20 AM) - Augmented attributes from cyberlimbs is calculated weirdly, it seems to take into account only attribute enhancements, but not the cyberlimb customization. Additionally, the augmented attribute is "natural" + "highest enhancement", where it should be the averaged value of the limbs.For some reason the combination of the descriptions and the examples in the book is making my brain hurt. I obviously don't have it right in the app and am fighting to get my head around this. Let me see if I've got this straight...The Street Samurai example in SR4A just lists the Enhancements which I think is one of the pieces that's confusing me because it looks as though Enhanced X directly improves that Attribute by the selected amount (but there are a number of problems with the example characters in that book so why should this one be any different).I've got a Human with STR 4. Drop in a Full Cyberarm. Give it Customized Strength 6 (natural maximum). I would now have STR 4 (6), correct? In order for it to become 4 (7), I would need to add Enhanced Strength 1?Same Human. Full Cyberarm again. This time I only add Enhanced Strength 1. Would my STR be 4 (5), even though limbs are supposedly STR 3 without enhancements? The example character certainly make it look that way. As I had mentioned, they make it look as though Enhanced Strength improves your character's STR, regardless of the STR the limb is at. Page 6 QUOTE (Nebular @ Feb 12 2012, 04:39 PM) Yup, [0] is perfectly valid. As long as it's 0 or higher, it's good. You could technically have something with a negative number which would add Capacity to the parent item (Bulk Modification for Cyberware actually does this). I'm not entirely sure what you're asking for with the Cyberware and Weapons thing. Are you looking for the ability to add Gear to Cyberware and Weapons? I'd like to get Commlinks working with Cyberware. If Gear plugins do eventually get allowed for these things, it would be fairly limited in its ability (like Armor - no sorting or anything else like that, and the Gear being limited to only one level of plugins).Basically according to the descriptions for Peripheral Devices they are in everything. Cyberware, Clothing, Armor, Weapons, the kitchen sink! You name it there is probably a Peripheral Device in it telling you if it's working properly, what's left in the fridge, what little jonny had for din din, etc...In the case of a hacker, and to some degree a technomancer being able to take all of those Peripheral Devices you have on your person, within your gear andglom them together as a cluster can be useful, if not important.They can also be upgraded, which just adds craziness to it.Oh and the commlinks for cyberware could also include the Weapon Commlink. Gotta be able to talk to people with your gun! (IMG-style_emoticons/default/smile.gif) Page 7 My Assistant Page 8 QUOTE (Squinky @ Jun 8 2011, 12:48 AM) I need to catch up on some things that I have been taking way too long to catch up. I could tell you now that I won't do your image, but then I would have to add you to the list of folks that were waiting way too long.It's just as well, the image I wanted has since turned into five.
